WRIGHT—Mas. NETTLE WRIGHT of States 1 Post-office, Lonisa county, is a case in point:
"I came to the United States a few years ago from Scotland, and located in Maine; but the long, cold winters up there made me look around for a more desirable place. My attention was called to this State. I wrote you on the matter, and from the information received, and from a personal visit, I bought a farm here, and have every reason to be and Denmark.

Some terse sentences found in these letters are given below: "I have been here one year and like the place. We had the mildest winter I ever saw. Did not lose one week's work last winter."—Joseph Critz, School, Va.

"The climate here is ideal—not too warm in the summer, nor too cold in winter. The negroes are peaceable and law-abid-ing. The Norwegian colony here consists.

"I am Scotch by birth and education, and have resided here for over fifty years. We have a mild climate, cheap land, and a great diversity of crops; easy access to the markets where good prices can be had for the products of the farm, that a hearty welcome awalls all new-comores."—David Gallindo, Petershur, Va. "It gives me pleasure to add my testimontal to the excellent climate and almost uniform productiveness of the soil here. Being raised and educated on a farm in Denmark, I determined to locate in After going through Canada and many of the States of the Union, I at last located in Virginia, and to this date I have never regretted the move."
